

PLAYBOY

PLAYBOY'S COLLEGE FICTION CONTEST: 2011

Playboy's* 2011 College Fiction Contest is now accepting submissions. First prize for the winning story is $3000 and publication in Playboy magazine. Second prize is $500 and third prize is $200.

The rules:

- Contest is open to all college students—no age limit.
- To enter, submit your typed double-spaced manuscript of 25 pages or fewer with a 3"x 5" card listing name, age, college affiliation, home address, phone number and e-mail address to Playboy College Fiction Contest, 730 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10019 before February 15, 2011.
- Playboy reserves the right to edit the first prize-winning story for publication and to publish winning entries in U.S. and foreign editions of Playboy and to reprint or incorporate them in anthologies or compilations of Playboy material without further compensation to the winner.
- Submitted manuscripts will not be returned.
- For a list of winners, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your manuscript, or send it separately to Playboy College Fiction Contest, 680 North Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, IL 60611

For complete rules, visit www.playboy.com/cfc. The 2010 winner was "Women, Fire & the Sea," by Meaghan Mulholland of the University of Arkansas. Runners up were Timothy Tau (University of California at Los Angeles), Sarah Perstein-Levy (Swarthmore College), Eva Langston (University of New Orleans), and Brian Trapp (University of Cincinnati).